Peer Support Website Launched For Veterans of Iraq and Afghanistan
Liqui-Site Designs Launches VetsForVetsRockland.org

(Nyack, NY) June 8, 2009 – Liqui-Site Designs Inc. announced today that it has launched a new website for Vets For Vets, a program offered by non-profit agency, VCS Inc. in New City, NY.

The Vets For Vets program offers a chance for veterans of Iraq and Afghanistan to speak individually with veterans of previous wars about their experiences. The program also provides support to family members and loved ones of veterans through couples counseling, family counseling, parenting and co-parenting groups, professional assessments, support for caregivers and grandparents, in-home counseling for the elderly and counseling for adolescents. Visit ( www.VetsForVetsRockland.org ).

“The website showcases the VCS peer counseling program for veterans of Iraq and Afghanistan, links to other resources, community opportunities and important information about the value in reaching out for support when returning from service. It is not easy for veterans to seek assistance after being trained to be supremely self reliant. It is the hope of the VCS Vets for Vets program that the website will attract new veterans and that they will become interested in exploring this unique, non-governmental, confidential service,” said Gail Golden, Clinical Director of VCS Inc.

Liqui-Site developed the brand identity and website for the VCS Vets For Vets program, with a customized blog and Facebook account to expand its reach to a younger demographic. These cost-effective solutions are great tools for any organization, whether for-profit or non-profit, and especially when operating in a niche market.
